PURPOSE

To provide ongoing education in Infection Prevention, which meets regulatory requirements.

POLICY

The principles and practices of infection prevention are presented during new employee orientation and on an ongoing basis for all employees.

PROCEDURE

1. New employee orientation is scheduled by the Human Resources Department. Principles and practices of infection prevention as well as OSHA regulations and CDC recommendations are presented.
2. Yearly infection prevention training is required.
3. Ongoing infection prevention programs are provided for employees as needed.
4. The Department Heads are responsible for ensuring staff compliance with infection prevention education.
4. Education is designed to keep employees informed of current regulations and revised guidelines. Specialized programs to present new policies, procedures and trends will be provided as needed.

If there is any discrepancy noted between the on-line version and the printed version of this policy/procedure, the on-line version is the true and accurate version.
